VOLUME XXI—NO. 75 CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA. WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 1, 1920 TWO CENTS

FAIR REPRESENTATION OF CHARLEROI WOMEN REGISTERING

Most of Them Qualifying Are Naming Republican Party as Preference

NAME PARTY WITHOUT ASKING

If the first precinct of Charleroi is a criterion the women vote of the borough will be overwhelmingly Republican. It is true that not a great number of women are registering to vote, although today there may be a greater amount of interest shown than on Tuesday. However it is possible that thetotal may show an average of about 100 to the precinct. This would be an encouraging number, if it should reach that total, with the prospect that next year the aggregate number will be much larger.

In the first precinct [illegible] a total of 89 women registered, and up until 11 o'clock this number had been increased to 75. The women have no hesitancy in giving their politics, although this is not required at this time. It is only necessary at the fall registration to see that the voter's name is on the list, but prior to the spring primary it is necessary for one to declare their politics if they wish to participate in the nomination of a partisan ticket.

In the first precinct, of the 75 women registered up to 11 o'clock. 59 had expressed a preference for the Republican party, seven for the Democratic, and seven for the Prohibition party. Two gave no party affiliation. In the third precinct there were 53 women registered on Tuesday, of whom 47 expressed a preference for the Republican party, three for the Democratic and three for the Prohibition. If this proportion is maintained in the remaining precincts it will show an overwhelming Republican vote at the November election in Charleroi.

Women are having their experiences in different precincts of the county, but this is due the new conditions now prevailing so far as suffrage is concerned. One assessor in the county is reported as having required those who registered on the presentation of their tax receipts to pay also a poll tax of 75 cents, which is required only of those who are not property owners. Other equally annoying incidents have been reported in the county, but no such circumstances have been encountered by the women in Charleroi.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE IS FULL OF INTEREST

The tri-district institute now in session at Monongahela, is being largely attended by teachers from the three towns, and the program is being closely followed. The lecture of Rev. J. C. Acheson of the Pennsylvania College for Women, on "Appalachian American," delivered Tuesday is very highly spoken of by those who heard him. Another interesting feature of the institute is expected to be the address of Dr. F. W. Hays of Wooster University, who speaks Thursday afternoon on the Irish question.

MALTAS WILL HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

Valley Echo Commandery, No. 379 Knights of Malta, will hold memorial services in the High school auditorium on Sunday, September 5th. at 2 o'clock, p. m. Aerial Commandery Band of McKeesport, will lead the parade, which will form in front of the Malta Temple on Fallowfield avenue and which will proceed from there to the High school auditorium. It is expected that visiting Commanderies will be present from towns between McKeesport and Brownsville. The address will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Curry, of California and the general public is invited. This will be the first memorial services ever held by the local Commandery, twelve of their members having died since the institution of the organization.

CASE IS REFERRED TO OTHER COUNTY

Coroner Greenlee has referred all the facts in his possession, in connection with the incidents leading up to the death of Walter Yazin, aged 7 years, of Third street, Monessen, who died in the Charleroi-Monessen hospital early Monday morning to the Coroner of Westmoreland county.

It will be remembered that the Yazin boy, who was riding on the back of a buggy which was being driven along the Pricedale road Sunday afternoon, when he suddenly jumped off and ran in front of a motorcycle driven by Androns Mericci, of Ashtabula, Ohio The boy was given first aid by Dr. Davis, who happened to be in that vicinity at the time, and then brought to the local hospital, where he died the following morning from a fractured skull.

Railroad To Employ Women As Watchmen At Crossings

Women watchmen will be seen at the railroad crossings of the Pennsylvania System on and after the first day of September, according to information received at the offices of the Monongahela Division at Uniontown. It has been the policy of the railroad company not to hire men over 45 years of age. During the war and recently men below that age have been hard to get and as a result a number of men well advanced in years have been guarding the crossings. The rule is not iron clad, the company taking into consideration employes who have been in the service a number of years and not fit for other service. Instructions have been issued that where men under 45 years of age cannot be secured for these positions that women shall be hired. It is expected that a number of women will replace the older men on the system after September 1st, and it is unlikely that soon a number of women will be seen in service along the tracks of the Monongahela Division.

DONORA IS NOW 20 YEARS OLD

Donora celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its founding on Monday, August 30. It was just twenty years ago that the first lot was sold in that town and the community has shown a steady growth ever since. At the time of the founding of the town there were only three houses on the original site ,one being the Castner homestead ,part of which still remains. the Heslep homestead, torn down a number of years ago, and the office of the Union Improvement Company, which had charge of the development of the town site. The first work on the mill, in the way of beginning foundations, had commenced on the 30th of May previously. Donora is now the second town in the county, and if the proposed extensions of the mills contemplated are placed under way, which they are expected to be within a short time, citizens of that thriving community expect to see their town the largest in the county.

BREWING PLANT TO MAKE VINEGAR

The Moose Brewing company at Roscoe have turned their brewery into a malt-vinegar plant The converting of the machinery has been in charge of William M. Donahey of South Brownsville. The making of vinegar was started last week and the company expects to be able to turn out about 50 barrels a day. The barrels of beer which were in the vats when prohibition came into effect were turned into the sewer about a month ago. The company is known as the Peerless Food Manufacturing company.

DAY MEN RECEIVE $1.50 A DAY INCREASE

An increase of $1.50 a day was awarded day men in the mines of the Pittsburg district at a conference on Tuesday held in Pittsburg, of representatives of the Pittsburg Coal Producers' Association and the wage scale committee of District 5, United Mine Workers of America. Trapper boys and others receiving less than men's wages were granted an increase of $2 cents a day.

The new rates are to be retoactive to August 16. Wages of the inside men now range from $5.75 to $6.10. and of the outside day men from $5.10 to $5.60. The flat increase of $1.50 will be added to all these rates. The increase of $2 cents will be added to a present rate of $3.18 for trapper boys and other boys. and also to the wages of crippled men and old men doing less than a man's work. The settlement was for the mines represented in the Pittsburg Coal Producers' Association.

WILL NOT MOVE BODY OF LIEUT. BOYD CRAWFORD

J. S. Crawford has received a letter from M. Wilson, who is on a tour abroad stating that he visited the cemetery at Bretenil and found the grave of Lieut. Boyd Crawford, who was killed in action. He stated that the body had been moved from the original burying place and located in the American cemetery. The grave was well taken care of by the attendants. who are Americans. Mr. Crawford has been asked by the Government if it was his desire that the body be returned to the United States and it has been decided to leave it in its present resting place.

BIG COAL TRACT CHANGES HANDS IN THE UPPER VALLEY

New Owner Expects To Begin Its Development At Once

OVER 10,000 ACRES IN FIELD

Additional coal development is promised for the upper Monongahela valley, and it is not improbable that the river will have its tonnage further increased when new mines to be opened and opened are ready to deliver production.

What is said to be the largest industrial coal land deal ever recorded in the United States has just been consummated in the purchase by J. A. Paisley, president of the Valley Camp Coal Company of the big Cochran tract of 13,606 acres of the Pittsburg vein of coal in Monongalia county, West Virginia at approximately $200 per acre, or a total of nearly $7,000,000.

The property, extending from Scott run to Robinson run, is in three blocks—one of 2,556 acres on the Monongahela railroad, which extends south from Brownsville to Fairmont and two on the Morgantown & Wheeling railroad of 5,104 and 5,948 acres respectively. There are about 2,500 acres of coal that outcrops; but the balance will have to be reached by shafts of approximately 100 feet deep. It is a nine-foot vein and has been characterized as the choicest coal lands in America. It adjoins big tracts owned by the Consumers Coal company and that of the Cleveland and Morgantown Coal comuany. For many years the property has been owned by the Cochran interests of Uniontown and Dawson. There have been various rumors during the past few years that the property was about to be sold, but it appears that the owners have heretofore shown little or no inclination to dispose of it.

By the deal Mr. aisley places his coal company far in the foreground among America's great coal land owners and operators. It is believed that the Valley Camp company intends to retain the whole of the property, although this could not be confirmed.

It is the expectation of Mr. Paisley to begin the development of the coal tract at once, and it is predicted that coal will be produced before the end of the year.

DELIVERY OF ASSESSORS BOOKS COMPLETED

The county commissioners have completed the delivery of the books and supplies to the assessors of the county for the making of the real estate and personal assessments for next year. The assessors began their work today. The supplies consist of an assessment book for each district ,a field book, military roll and blanks to be used for the making of personal property returns. money at interest, etc., by the citizens. There are 77 assessment districts in Washington county.

ENGINEERS FORM AN ORGANIZATION

The first meeting of the Charleroi Club, which was recently charted by the American Association of Engineers, was held Tuesday evening at the Hotel Wilbur. At this meeting steps were taken to include all professional engineers of Charleroi and surrounding cities in the membership. Eighteen applicants signified their intention to become members, and it is hoped to increase this number to fifty by the next meeting, which be held on the 15th of September.

F. E. N. Thatcher, District Secretary of Pittsburg, explaineed the objects and ideals of the Association. He stated that the organization with its 22,000 members, was now the largest in the world, and that it was taking a very active part in civic affairs He compared its work favorably with that of the American Bar Association and of the American Medical Association, and showed that the success of the engineer depended not only on the technical knowledge but upon his appreciation of the human side of the job.

John N. O'Neil, Sr., was elected President; Thomas H. Somerville, vice president, and Doyle M. Crator, secretary. Committees were appointed and action taken to get into touch with the Boards of Trade relative to an October meeting, at which Dr. F. H. Newell, Dean of Civil Engineering, University of Illinois, has promised to speak on a topic of interest to this community.

A REAL CAMPAIGN SCANDEL

If Governor Cox can successfully defend the Democratic performance and the Democratic program in regard to League and other matters, he will come closer to justifying the advance accounts of him as "an able campaigner" than he will ever get by unproved and unsupported charges as to the size of the Republican "war chest." says the Pittsburg Press.

In view of the prevailing belief that the biggest Wall street interest, led by J. P. Morgan & Co., stand to make hundreds of millions of dollars out of the international financing incidental to the League of Nations project, and will miss these huge profits if the project falls through the Democratic campaign treasurer is more likely to have plutocratic funds at his disposal than the Republicans When the campaign is over and the actual amount of each fund becomes honestly ascertainable ,the country will be genuinely interested in the comparison. Its inquiry addresses to Cov. Cox, "How about your fund?" will be well pointed in the meanwhile; the Senate investigating committee upon which Mr. Cox is loudly calling to delve into the Republican strong box ought not to forget something as to which the Democratic candidate preserves a strange silence. We mean. (1) the circulation of Democratic literature at the public expense by disguisng it as "public documents;" (2) the political activity of a large army of Federal office holders, paid to devote their whole time to the public service but devoting it to work for the Democratic candidate. Here is a real, not so imaginary, campaign scandal.

A GERMAN BOURBON.

VonTiripitz is a name that calls up visions of the sinking of the Lusitania and other features of an unrestricted submarine policy that caused the whole world to look upon Germany with horror and loathing. One woul dsupopse that now, realizing how much he did to defeat his country vonTirpitz would be repentant, or at least exhibit a chastened solemnity of manner. But the vonTiriptz who now airs his views in a Berlin paper is the selfsame vonTirpitz of old, evidently convinced that he was always right and is still right. He even insists that Bismarck, if alive, would see things just as he does. He still burns with "England we hatt" sentiment and is outraged to think that 'in spite of all our experiences during the war. the most able men among us are always ready to allow the English to lead them around by the nose as soon as they approach us with soft words or little acts of kindness.

England "fans our hatred for France," says von Tirpitz, while she herself wears "her benevolent puritan mask." He declares it is his firm conviction that we and the continent of Europe, which has gone down with us, can only recover if we recognize England's cold, egotistical psychology and act accordingly." It is the useless babble of a German Bourbon who can learn nothing. England, safe in her "pirate's nest" has again "succeeded owing to the stupidity and jealousy of the European nations." Obsessed by Anglophobia ,von Tirpitz appears to have no eyes for either the great part played by America in the war, or for the actual conditions in Europe and his own country. More than all is no blind to his own blunders and sins.

THE NEW VOTERS

The voters of the women will accomplish no great revolution. But the women will go into the elections all over the United States with the idealism and the spirit of service that characterizes the vote of "just of age" man who casts his first ballot every year. Woman naturally will bring good through their exercise of the right of franchise, and future generations will profit through the woman vote.

SHAKESPEARE IN BERLIN.

It is no surrpise to hear that Shakespeare is still popular in Berlin for a German critic long ago announced that the Bard of Aron was "essentially German," which meant that whatever the Germans admire anywhere on the planet they are disposed to claim as in essence their own on the ground that nothing that is not German can be really excellent. The German mark may indeed be on the murder scene in "Julius Ceasar" as recently developed in a big Berlin theatre, for Henry Irving or Edwin Booth would probably have said that it sacrifices the probable for the sensational. "An enormous staircase" we read, "runs down the center of the huge stage. When the conspirators begin upon Ceasar he is up at the top of the stair case As the 'northern star unshaked of motion' reels downward and across the stage to the footlights his progress is punctuated and he is punctured step by step 'only to receive the final stab from Brutus when he is almost in the midst of the audience." This sort of circus and bull fight adaptation of classic tragedy would hardly have appaled to the immortal Will and is not likely to gratify the artistic sense of either his more skilled interpreters or his more intelligent admirers.

AMERICA LOOKS GOOD

The word is that the United States must be preapred for an inrush of 25,000 immigrants weekly. America continues to look good to people of the old world who have been noting developments since the League of Nations went into force. Somehow the unsettled conditions in the old world are growing worse instead of better with the Moscow soviet promising plenty more of it.

A lot of people who a few years ago could not afford to begin payments on a mortgage of a $4,000 house, are now paying rent based on the cost of keeping up a $10,000 proposition.

The fact that a fellow is "hollering" for dear life to have the price of other people's products come down, does not prove that he'd take a cent less in wages.

Is it possible that some of the women who have been fighting all their lives for the right of suffrage. are forgetting to register?

RETURN VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DROWN

A coroner's jury composed of Geo. Newton, G. B. Nelan. Jacob Hormell, Robert Vetter, Wm. High and Geo. Arnold held an inquest at the Crowley undertaking rooms Tuesday evening to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Nerfoot Carson, who was drowned at the local bathing beach on the 16th August. The jury held quite a lengthy session. conducted by Coroner Greenlee, and a number of witnesses were examined, at the conclusion of which the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by accidental drowning.

The Tale of a Shirt.

A torn shirt was produced as evidence in a case which came up in the police court not very long ago, when an American judge whose native tongue is English heard the tale of the shirt from a Filipino brand of American whose native tongue is Spanish, through an interpreter whose native tongue is also Spanish, but who understands English well enough to explain that his countryman's shirt was torn in a "pilikia over one pants" and had disappeared from his laundry. The defendant was a Chinese laundryman who claimed through an interpreter whose native tongue is also Chinese, but who understands English sufficiently to explain that the Filipino had accepted the laundry on Sunday only to return on Monday to pick a fight over the alleged disappearance of his "one pants." The laundryman was defended by a lawyer of Chinese blood who speaks English like a native of the states.—Pacific Commercial Advertiser, Honolulu.

Highest Type of Joy.

There is no joy superior to that of rising above what the community predicts for you. Yet every man has it in him to be infinitely above what others think possible. Hidden deep in every man are the unseen personalities waiting for the touch of occasion to call them forth. They respond as a matter of growth and then only to answer a recognized need. As the mind is urged to finer discriminations it learns to relish more subtle arguments. As the heart is taught to feel the cry of another's sorrow it develops larger capacity to enter into the deep feelings of the human soul. It is all a matter of human and divine love. He who permits himself to develop his best becomes the man of the hour in proportion. He rises on the crest of his personality. —Exchange.

Do the Moments Work Well.

It's not easy to arouse enthusiasm about a quiet life. Yet the man who is overbusy in searching for the big thing to do never accomplishes much. Life's great opportunities come to those who are busy with their own jobs. There is no recommendation like that of industry. Candidates for new jobs pay undue attention in hope of new, but when a really great job is wanted men seek to find him among the toiling leaders of successful enterprises. The principle is as old as history. When the Lord needed prophets he called them from the plow and the pasture. When the world needed disciples he called them from the nets and the receipts of customs. When the world needs a man today it looks for him among the busy producers of progress.—Grit.

Thirsty Diver.

Of all crafts diving is the most lonely, but the diver while at work is absolutely his own master, and even the result of his work cannot always be seen. But it is rash to assume that he cannot "go round the corner to have a drink." A diver once employed in salvaging a wrecked vessel, varied the monotony of his work by solving a bottle. This he carried to a part of the ship that was above water, and by manipulating his helmet, he managed to quench his thirst. Then he tried to close the helmet again, but the rush of air made it impossible, so he had to give the alarm signal and wait patiently until he was hauled.

Radium Economy.

The use of radium on a large scale therapeutically involves danger of loss, and this factor has been a big one in inducing hospitals and clinics with a gram or more of the element in use to utilize radium emanation instead of applicators containing the radium itself. There has been installed in a Pittsburgh laboratory an elegant and useful apparatus for the collection, purification and tubing of radiation emanation obtained from a salt of the element. It differs from earlier apparatus in that liquid air is replaced by chemical means of purifying the emanation which are felt to be more reliable.

"As to lady birds, let me tell you what happened in Westport, Mass., while my family were living there. The teacher was giving the youngest scholars their first instruction in the lower grades, and they had 'lady-bug' before them on the blackboard. They knew 'lady' and they knew 'bug,' but no one in class knew what that little line in the middle might mean, and they were afraid. Suddenly one little fellow remembered the sign of subtraction in arithmetic, and made up his mind that he saw just what was meant; and he read it off gleefully, "Lady, take away bug!"—Christian Endeavor World.

Destroys Many Bugs.

A cliff swallow will eat a thousand gnats, mosquitoes, wheat midgets or beetles that injure fruit trees in a day, and, therefore, is to be encouraged, says the American Forestry association. This bird is also known as the eaves swallow because it plasters its nest on the outside of a barn or other building up under the eaves. Colonies of several thousand will build their nests together on the side of a cliff. These nests, shaped like a flattened gourd or water-bottle, are made of bits of clay rolled into pellets and lined with straw or feathers. This bird winters in the tropics.

GUILD HOLDS ITS OPENING MEETING

The Westminister Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening in the home of Miss Bess Richey on Lookout avenue, and the meeting took the form of a review for a busy winter's work. Preliminary plans were perfected f or getting into closer touch with the central organization. The President of the Guild, Miss Richey, presided, and the discussion of the evening was led by Mrs. Grey Gaut and Mrs. Russell Blythe. "What American can Contribute to the Well Being of the Immigrants" was the subject of the study. The closing interpretation of the discussion was given by Miss Norm Swan. Miss Elizabeth Elliott and Miss Grace Golder gave a report of the Grove City conference recently held. The reports were of great interest to the Guild members and received much favorable comment. Action was taken relative to a suitable recognition of the. fifteenth anniversary of the society's organization. A social hour followed the program and Miss Richey and Miss Bella Geho were the hostesses.

Ventilation.

Through persistent education the why and wherefore of this great health necessity has been explained; still to the many, air is air, and that is all there is to it.

"Ventilation does not simply mean "open wide the windows," but it should be done scientifically especially in the sick room. To properly ventilate, [illegible] must be kept in motion. This is done by opening the fresh air source lower than the one for exit. If the openings are directly opposite the motion will take place without doing the room any good. If there are two windows in the room one should be opened from the top and the other from the bottom. For the general daytime room the temperature should be 68 degrees and at night 65. A bathroom should be kept at 70. For the sick room of pneumonia patients and several other diseases, of course the temperature should be kept as low as possible without having the patient in a draught.

Worse Than Modern Drill.

In an [illegible] China a man suffering from [illegible] proceeded in this wise: He [illegible] to the Chinese doctor, who was [illegible] with a lot of sharp needles of various sizes and lengths. The method of treatment was [illegible] known as acupuncture [illegible] consisted of the insertion of needles into various parts of the body, the choice points of selection being 26 for toothache and six others for inflammation of the gums. The depth to which the needles were inserted is said to have been an important point in the operation. This puncturing was associated with cauterization.

Bees Swifter Than Pigeons.

There is a story to the effect that a farmer in Westphalia laid a wager that 12 bees of his, released at a distance of three miles from their hives, would travel as rapidly as a like number of pigeons over the same course. The first bee, properly powdered for purposes of identification, did, as a matter of fact, arrive at its hive a quarter of a minute before the coming of the first pigeon to its cote; and there were nine other bees that came in before the second pigeon arrived.

Can There Be Thought Without Brain?

Most of the scientists agree that there can be no thought without a living brain, yet some of the best scholars argue that before the appearance of man, nature was far more intelligent than we are at the present day, and from a logical standpoint it seems reasonable to suppose they are right. No machinery created by man ever worked half so perfectly as the planets of our solar system as they rush over their orbits around the sun. In the forests of our globe nature has achieved the most marvelous inventions in the way of plants, animals and insects. The laws of gravitation, attraction and repulsion, and the phenomena of life and death are beyond the comprehensibility of man, yet they are manifestations of an intelligence far superior to the workings of any human brain. The creation of man and the workings of his brain should, alone, be sufficient evidence of pre-existent thought.

Ancient Nuremburg Token.

Crushed and battered, a rare coin has been discovered in a garden at Llanvair, a village near the Roman city of Caerwent, midway between Chepstow and Newport. It has proved, after careful examination, to be a Nuremberg token, and was minted in 1540 by Christopher Schutz (who was born at Annaberg), at Tintern, whence a few years previously the monks had been driven out. Schutz found the mill ponds and fish ponds left by the monks ready to his hand; from the forest of Dean he obtained bar iron and wood for charcoal from the forest of Westford, which is in the neighborhood of Llanvair. Cases are on record of Nuremberg coins having been discovered in London, and as far north as Lincoln, but this is the first instance of such a coin token being found in the western counties or in south Wales.—London Times.

It is claimed that many summer resorts have bad drinking water, but probably the real trouble is that the tourists consider all water bad.

THE DRIFT TO THE CITIES

and the continued movement away from the farm today greatly increases the economic importance of the farmer who stays on the job.

His numbers diminished, the nation's demands upon him for food and clothing increased, a great responsibility rests upon his shoulders.

Our many years of close cooperation with local farming interests have given us a practical, common-sense understanding of the farmer's problems. This enables us to render a banking service which farmers find especialy helpful under present conditions.

Charleroi's Busy Store

Miss Perkins will freeze Ice Cream on one side of cooker and roast chicken on the other side at the same time Thursday 2 P. M.

Will You Come?

Fascinating Lectures on Fireless Cooking. All Women Invited.

A wonderfully interesting demonstration of "Domestic Science" Fireless Cookstoves is being held in our store this week. It will be a revelation to every woman—even those who think they already know all the possibilities of fireless cooking. They will find new uses for fireless cookery, learn how to bake, roast and brown, as well as boil and stew by conserved heat. They will even discover how to freeze ice cream in these cookers.

Won't you be one of the women to attend this demonstration and taste the delicious things cooked in the "Domestic Science?" Hear how to cut your fuel bills 30 per cent; learn how to save food and have better cooked meals with infinitely less trouble. You will be made to realize more than ever before how much time and comfort the "Domestic Science" will give you.

The "Domestic Science" Fireless Cookstove has a number of unduplicated features which enables it to bake and brown as no other can. Among these are the famous Water Seal Top, the automatic heat conserving steam valve, the extra heavy strata-laid insulation, the strong, durable, aluminum lining of extra quality. Ask about them when you come.

Domestic Science Fireless Cookers

Enameled steel outer casing, rustproof. Extra heavy seamless aluminum cooking compartments. Scientific hand packed insulation. Patented exclusive waterseal covers and heat conserving valves insure perfect results. Full equipment of "Ideal" aluminum utensils. Radiator thermometer.

The Battle-Call Of The Bull Ape!

Standing on the top-most branch of the tallest tree in the jungle Tarzan sends booming through the dense thickets a blood-curdling roar ofdefiance.

The savage beasts of the jungle cringe at the sound. The tawny hair of Numa, the lion, stands up stiffly along his spine. It is the cry of Death!

The most thrilling picture ever screened. Don't miss it--if you love excitement, romance, adventure, fight!

"REAL SHOE MEN"
Charleroi, Pa.

Puzzling the Prelate.

There are some good stories in "Records," Lord Fisher's volume of reminiscences. One of the best concerns a dinner party he gave at his house: "There was present a Roman Catholic archbishop. He was a great saint. Another of my guests was a famous conjurer. After dinner we sat down to play cards. But the new pack I had ready was found to be missing. 'Halloa!' I said. 'Where are the cards gone to?' The conjurer said: 'It doesn't matter; the archbishop will let us have the pack he always carries about in his pocket.' The holy man furtively put his hand in his pocket, thinking my conjurer friend was only joking—and, dash it! there they were. I never saw such a look in a man's face. He evidently thought Satan was crawling about somewhere."

Goat Milk Condensory.

The only goat milk condensory in the world is located at Pesadoro, San Meteo county, 45 miles south of San Francisco. Here the Widgmann goat milk laboratories maintain a herd of 6,000 milk goats, according to the California development board annual report. The milk goat is seemingly immune from tuberculosis and the demand for canned milk from physicians for use of tubercular patients and infants far exceeds the supply. Interest in this branch of dairying is increasing, indicated by growing demand for breeding stock and importation of outstanding animals. During the last two years the number of milk goats owned in the state has increased about 50 per cent, many of them purchased for family use.

Unpleasant Swimming Companion.

A girl had a terrifying experience in the Zwartkops river, South Africa, recently. She had been swimming with her father, but stayed out longer than he did. From the bank he heard a joking remark, and the next moment she cried out in obvious terror and pain. The father was within reach, and as his daughter flung an arm upwards he grasped it, and dragged her from the water. It appears that when she was within a couple of feet of the jetty the girl became conscious of the presence in the water of something large, which appeared to be swimming towards her. Thinking it was her father swimming submerged to give her a ducking, she laughingly called to him to stop joking. Then she became aware that the swimmer was a shark!

Curious Footwear Customs.

Footwear customs in various lands are as curious as they are varied. The Eskimo women, for instance, chew the leather from which they fashion their boots, whether it be reindeer, seal or dogskin, in order to make it soft and pliable. When finished their gaudy boots are as grotesque as can be imagined. The Breton sabot makers spend their days in the forest fashioning their oddly shaped shoes from a solid block of wood, first roughly shaped, then finished into smooth fitness for the foot. Red leather shoes with huge pompons emphasize the up-turned toes worn by the queen's guards of Athens, while one of the most curious and typical shoes in the world is the wooden footwear of Holland.

"Scientific" Legislators.

For lack of technical knowledge, legislators are sometimes guilty of passing measures that are soon found open to severe criticism and sometimes fail to accomplish the end which was intended and desired To overcome this condition an Australian doctor has come to the fore with a scientific first aid for legislators. He suggests that "royal commissioners of science" be appointed in each house of the Australian parliament, who should have the right to be heard at the bar of the house on any matter in which science plays a part. They would devote their whole time to this work and be paid such salaries as would attract men of the highest talents.

Find Skeleton of Old Fighter.

Near Sandown castle, Deal, England, children at play recently unearthed the skeleton of an ancient warrior. The body had, apparently, received Christian burial, as it lay with the feet pointing eastward. The skull had in the center, about midway between the eyes, a round hole about the size of a dollar, which might have been caused by a stone thrown from a sling, or by spear of battleax. The remains appeared to be centuries old, and the theory is that they are those of a warrior or seaman landed and buried from some ship after a sea fight in the Downs.

The bluebird is among the first often the first to arrive in spring in the northern part of the United States from the southern states, where this aristocrat has been spending the winter, says the American Forestry association, Washington. Sometimes the hardy bluebirds will pass the winter as far north as southern New England. The bluebird builds its nest in bird boxes, or in crannies about buildings or in holes in trees, particularly orchard trees. It lines the bottom of its nest with grasses for the four or five blue-white eggs which it lays. The female is paler in color than the male bird.

Lines to Be Remembered.

Abundance seldom consists not alone in material possession, but in an uncovetd spirit.—Seldon.

May Be Pirate's Hoard.

Henry Johnson, the chief man at Orange Town, island of St. Eustatia, was digging a post hole a few years ago and turned up a small sealed earthen jar, which was filled with old coins. They were Japanese pieces 200 years old, relics of the trade which the Dutch were among the first to establish with the far east. These were said to have been buried when a black pirate barque poured her drinking, blasphemous crew ashore for a night's orgy. Another story of the Japanese coins is that some Kittifonian or Bermudian, waxing rich in contraband trade in his neutral mart, exchanged the dollars and eagles he had gained from America for Japanese gold at the money merchants, thereby eluding the clutches of the British admiral, Lord Rodney, who raided the island in 1781.

Wall Paper.

Wall papers, to replace tapestries and other costly wall coverings, were made possible by the introduction of water colors in art. Wall papers were limited at first to the imitations of tapestries, velvets and leather hangings. Although there is evidence that colored wall papering was done in China at a much earlier period, it was not until the eighteenth century that papers of this type were introduced in Europe. The paper for these hangings was hand made in small sheets (22x34 inches), and was pasted together to secure the desired length. The colors were then laid on by stencil or brush. In Europe, the costliest wall papers are still those that counterfeit most successfully some other fabric or faithfully reproduce the works of antiquity.

Comets Not Dangerous.

As comets are shooting through space at all sorts of angles to the earth's path, it is not impossible for a collision with the earth to take place. But comets are not dangerous bodies, and the chances of a comet hitting the earth are only one to 15,000,000. If you were to shut your eyes and fire at random into the air your chances of bringing down a bird would be immeasurably greater than those of a comet striking the earth. If an ordinary sized comet ever got headed for the earth it would be turned to incandescent dust when it struck our atmosphere, and we should never even be able to find the dust unless, perhaps, an occasional stone should happen to get through our aerial envelope.

A Conversation.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock—at the halfway house of night—I heard slow hoofs below my window, and leaning out, saw under moonshine two great cart horses wandering down the road together. They were enjoying a phase of their existence unknown to us. They conversed in little sounds and when one stopped, to snort and sniff at the water of a duck pond by the way, the other also stopped, raised his head and looked steadfastly up into the starry sky. I saw the moonlight in his big eyes. Presently they put their noses together. Then one gave a slight start—perhaps at the opinions of the other—and side by side they sauntered away into the night-hidden land.—Phil'potts.

For the Heathen.

There was a collection taken at our church to clothe the heathen in Africa. I handed my wife two quarters, saying, "Well, here are a couple of buttons for the heathens, anyway." My little boy heard the conversation, but did not see the money passed. A few days later the minister called, the little boy asked the minister whether the heathens wore trousers, the minister answered in the affirmative, and asked why he asked the question. "O," said the little boy, "now I know why papa gave mamma a couple of buttons to put in the box the time you took up the collection." It took me some time to straighten out the situation.—Chicago Tribune.

Personality that attracts and compels respect is not always a matter of birth. To be sure a man reflects the standing of his grandfathers and takes a running start from their shoulders. But life's arena is large and admits all comers. It takes the poor lad and boosts him to wealth, it as often takes the pampered son of the rich and introduces him to a life of toil. Sometimes he doesn't take kindly to it, so he lands in the common dump where all failures drop sooner or later. Money is a god-send or a curse and the way we use it shows what we are.

Cause of Thunder Storms.

Broadly speaking there are three general stages in the development of a thunder storm. There must be strong currents of moist air rising from the earth, as indicated by the appearance of the white patches of cloud. This condition must continue until the sky is covered. And lastly, the force of these upward currents must be great enough to push the clouds up into thunder heads. A thunder storm then results.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

First Talking Machine.

The first practical talking machine, invented in 1886, by Chester Bell and Charles S. Trainter, consisted of a wax cylinder attached to the wheels of a sewing machine which was worked by foot.

Measuring Rainfall.

To measure rainfall it is necessary to use a rain gauge. In its common form it consists of a cylindrical vessel closed at the top by a funnel-shaped lip, through a hole in the center of which the rain falls. A narrow glass tube, rising outside the vessel from near the bottom, shows the amount of rain in the vessel. A very simple rain gauge consists of a copper funnel, the area of whose opening is ten square inches. This funnel allows the rain to pass into a bottle and the quantity of rain caught is ascertained by multiplying the weight in ounces by .173, which gives the depth in inches. A rain gauge must be placed in as open position as possible, away from trees, house or other obstructions.

Famous London Bridge.

Blackfriars bridge, a famous structure across the Thames, in London, was built by Robert Mylne in 1760 to 1769. Owing to its piers giving way it was replaced by an iron structure resting on granite piers. It is 1,272 feet long and 80 feet broad. The bridge derives its name from an ancient monastery of the Black Friars, which once stood on the bank of the river close at hand. It dated from 1275, and was the scene of several parliaments. It was there also that Cardinals Wolsey and Campeggio pronounced sentence of divorce against Queen Catherine of Aragon, June 21, 1529. In 1599 Shakespeare acted in a theater that occupied part of the site of the ancient monastery.

Peat.

Peat has long been used in fertilizing the soil, having been either applied as a direct fertilizer or used as a filler for commercial fertilizer. Analyses of the peats of the United States show an average nitrogen content of about 2 per cent, a proportion somewhat higher than that found in some commercial fertilizers. The value of peat in soil fertilization is found in its nitrogen content and in the beneficial mechanical effect it produces upon certain lands. Black, thoroughly decomposed peats are most satisfactory for fertilizer, as such peats are generally heavier and more compact and contain more nitrogen and less fibrous material than the brown types.—United States Geological Survey.

Roman Way With Peace Negotiators.

In the brave days of the early Roman republic the consuls might indeed negotiate and sign treaties of peace on their own responsibility. But if the senate and people failed to ratify, the correct practice was to surrender the consuls to the enemy. Thus, according to Cicero (De Officiis III., 30) Titus Veturius and Spurius Postumius were delivered up to the Samnites, with whom they had negotiated an unsatisfactory peace. And on a much later occasion Caius Mancinus, who had negotiated a peace treaty with the Numantini which the senate failed to ratify, was on his own motion surrendered to the enemy.—New Republic.

Gee! Haw! Haw!

We were spending the summer in the country. I was entertaining a city friend. One afternoon I rented a horse and buggy of a neighboring farmer. All went well. We enjoyed our ride through the charming country, but when we wished to go back, I couldn't turn around (never having driven before). So we had to ride till we came to a barnyard. When I had turned around and was about to drive out again the whole farmer's family came out. When I said, "I had to drive in to turn around," the man threw up his hands and called out, "Ach, himmel!" We drove away as fast as we could.—Chicago Tribune.

Our Tools Had Origin Centuries Ago.

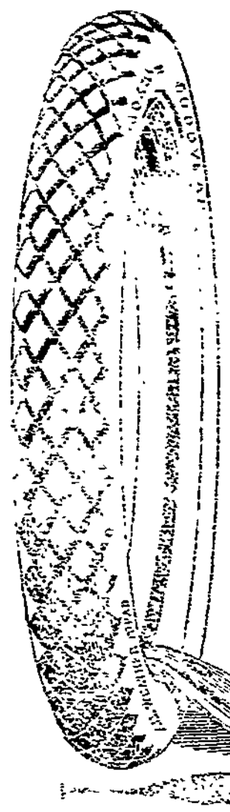
Modern tools originated in ancient times, and many of the old-time forms were of much better workmanship than those in use today. Thus it appears that the forms of the chisel were perfected 2,500 years ago, and that the beauty of workmanship in bronze age chisels has never been exceeded. The carpenter's saw was at first merely a blade roughly hacked on the edge. By 4500 B. C. it had regular teeth, sloping equally both ways, and by 900 B. C. the Italians gave a rake to the teeth to make them cut in one direction, instead of merely scraping, as before.

To dream of land is a sign you will travel; to dream of owning it, promises profit and happiness. The happiness and profit will be in proportion to the extent of the land owned in your dreams. If the land is improved with gardens, houses, arbors and so on, it is a sign of a beautiful home filled with harmonious people. If it is planted with grain, it foretells wealth in proportion to its extent. If planted with vegetables, it is a sign of afflictions in the same degree. If you dream of black land, it signifies sorrow and melancholy.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Ships Warned of Bad Weather.

Ships at sea within range of British wireless shore stations are to be protected by warning radio signals, whenever gales of forty miles an hour threaten, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Using a wave length of 600 meters (1,968 feet) at full power, the safety signal will be sent out ten times at brief intervals, followed by the warning.

The Economy of Using Goodyear Small Car Tires



So-called bargain tires, made up for sensational sales and offered at ridiculously low prices, do not attract careful buyers.

They are far more concerned with what they get than with what they pay because they know that in the end it is performance and not price that delivers actual tire economy.

The popularity of Goodyear Tires, of the 30x3-, 30x3½- and 31x4-inch sizes, is based on the fact that they deliver exceptional mileage at exceedingly low cost.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

30 x 3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $23.50

30 x 3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? 30 x 3½ size in waterproof bag $4.50

A CHARLEROI INTERVIEW

Mrs. Velletty Tells Her Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with a Charleroi woman five years ago, and its sequel will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

Mrs Louis Velletty, 295 Prospect Ave., Charleroi, says: "I was troubled for years with swelling around my ankles and feet and found it hard to get around. A dull heavy pain in the small of my back made it hard for me to do my housework. Mornings I would wake up very sore and found great difficulty in bending or moving in any way. Rheumatic pains shot all through me and I often had a tired dragged feeling. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and purchased a box at Peper's Pharmacy. After taking two boxes of the medicine I was relieved. I would like Doan's occasionally and they keep me feeling fine." (Statement given Jan. 30, 1914.)

On December 9, 1918, Mrs. Velletty said: "I haven't had to use Doan's Kidney Pills lately and I tell everyone I hear complaining of their kidneys to try Doan's."
